

Bishop Marling Installed As First Head of Jefferson City Diocese

The only living bishop in the Society of the Precious Blood—the Most Reverend Joseph M. Marling—was formally installed as the first bishop of the Jefferson City, Mo. diocese Nov. 27 before 800 persons in the historic St. Peter the Apostle cathedral at Jefferson City.

St. Joseph's College also has seven other Alumni who presently hold the rank of bishop, but none of them are of the Sanguinist order.

The former auxiliary bishop of the old Kansas City diocese was presented the crozier, symbol of episcopal office, by Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis amidst the colorful pageantry of the Church's high ecclesiastical functions.

The two-hour event began with a procession of bishops, archbishops and monsignors, with Bishop Marling and Archbishop Ritter at the rear. At the altar the archbishop ascended a throne and Bishop Marling was seated on the faldstool. The papal bull designating the diocese and Bishop Marling as its leader was then read by Msgr. John P. Flood, Columbia, Mo.

The new head of the diocese was then escorted to the episcopal throne, where the crozier was presented.

The diocese established by the bull was formed from parts of the Kansas City and St. Joseph dioceses and the archdiocese of St. Louis. It comprises 38 counties covering an area of 22,127 square miles. As head of the area, Bishop Marling will be the leader of 140 priests and about 50,000 Catholics.

Some 100 members of the Society of the Precious Blood, including many from St. Joseph's College, viewed the ceremonies along with about 250 other members of the hierarchy and priesthood from all over the nation. St. Joseph's Glee Club and Choir, under the direction of Fr. Lawrence Heiman, provided the music.

The new bishop's first official act was the celebration of a solemn pontifical Mass. After the gospel, Bishop Marling told his audience that the "responsibilities are not light which face those of us who must develop a new diocese."

"However, we are not forced to act alone because it is God's plan," he said.

Quoting from the Bible, he pointed out that "we can do all things in Him Who gives us strength."

"From this moment on," he said, "it is God's plan we advance together to our sanctification and to our responsibility to Christianize the world."

In a brief address following the installation, Archbishop Ritter said of Bishop Marling:

"He is known to us. The Holy Father could not have sent a better prepared and qualified bishop to this diocese. Under such leadership there must come great good for the Church both in the diocese and Missouri."

The Bishop was born in Centralia, W. Va., and received his college training at St. Joseph's, where his brother, Brother John Marling, is presently professor of mathematics, and at St. Charles Seminary in Carthage, O. He

Jauron To Be Feted In Chicago Jan. 30

A testimonial dinner honoring head Coach Bob Jauron is being sponsored by the Alumni Association's Chicago Chapter for Wednesday night, Jan. 30. The affair will be held at the Casino, 7500 S. Halsted in Chicago, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

All SJC Alumni and guests are welcome. Tickets, at $5.00 a plate, may be purchased from the co-chairmen of the dinner—Joseph W. McGrath, 6701 S. Perry ave., Chicago 21, or George Byerwalter, 8119 S. Ellis, Chicago 19. About 400 persons are expected to attend.

Thomas Brier, national president of the Alumni Association, will be the toastmaster. St. Joseph's football squad will be present as guests of the Chicago Chapter.

Students Hear Fr. Mullen, '42

Fr. Bernard Mullen, '42, and Fr. Charles McKoy, an Honorary St. Joe Alumnus, conducted the annual spiritual retreat at St. Joseph's Dec. 6, 7 and 8. Father Mullen was in charge of the Upperclassmen while Father McKoy talked to the freshmen and sophomores.

After his ordination in 1948, Father Mullen served as assistant at St. Peter and Paul Church in Ottawa, O., and, from 1951 to 1955, as assistant at St. Paul Church in Marion, Ind. While at Marion, Father Mullen was connected with the Catholic Broadcasting Association and gained experience in the field of radio preaching. In September, 1955, he joined the Precious Blood Mission Band; his present Mission residence is at St. Anthony Church in Detroit, Mich.

Society Honors Five '56 Grads

Five members of the 1956 graduating class were added to St. Joseph's Gamma Delta chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the national Catholic scholastic honor society. The '56 grads were Edward Hennekes, Joseph Maher, Roger Uecker, Gerald Higgins, and Donald Prullage. Two others, Richard Barnett and Melvin Hackman, were installed last June.

The ceremonies took place at a Student Convocation held October 16, at which Fr. Rufus Esser, secretary of the college, presided. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Thomas A. Garrett, registrar of St. Michael's College, Winooski, Vermont, and national president of Delta Epsilon Sigma.

Thirteen members of the senior class were also installed. They include: Thomas Alter, Marvin Fisher, Richard Flynn, Robert Gasior, Joseph Gulassa, Ronald Keller, James Kubacki, Clifford Robinson, George Saliga, Anthony Smith, Aloysius Stryck, George Troha, and Charles Vietzen.

Founded in 1939, Delta Epsilon Sigma is a national scholastic honor society whose sole purpose is the recognition and encouragement of high scholarship among the graduates of Catholic liberal arts colleges and universities. At present, its membership includes 70 chapters.

To be eligible for membership in Delta Epsilon Sigma a student must maintain a B average and must be in the upper 20% of his class. In addition, the total number elected to the society must not exceed 10% of his class.

Fr. Raphael Gross, president of the College, also serves as president of the local chapter. Fr. Edward Maziarz, dean of the College, is the secretary of Gamma Delta Chapter. Other faculty

Party Given Dec. 16 By Louisville Chapter

Over 70 St. Joseph Alumni and friends attended a cocktail party and buffet supper sponsored by the Louisville Chapter Dec. 16 preceding the St. Joe-Bellarmine College basketball game.

The party, held at Bellarmine College, was termed by Chairman Rudy Volz, Jr., '53, as "perhaps the most successful and best attended of Louisville Chapter functions recently held." He reported that a number of Alumni came from outside the Louisville area.

As a result of the success of the affair Volz and others in attendance expressed their desire for a sustained program by the Chapter.

After the party the group witnessed en masse the most exciting St. Joe basketball game to date as the Pumas lost a thriller to Bellarmine in the last five seconds, 70-68.

Peffer Moves South

Jack Peffer, '47, left the country with his family Nov. 13 for Venezuela where he has received a new assignment from the Socony-Mobil Oil Co.

Jack is the geophysical supervisor of Western Venezuela, with location at Barinas, a town located in west-central Venezuela on the eastern slope of the Andes mountains. His crews will be working mainly in the Barinas Basin.

Socony is building a modern town in the area with all facilities and accommodations for the geologists and their families.

Jack's address is in care of the Socony-Mobil Oil Co., Apartado 246, Caracas, Venezuela, S.A.

members are Fr. Joseph Kendel, Fr. Edwin Kaiser, Mr. Paul Tonner, and Mr. Jay Barton II, who were also officially installed at the convocation.

Students' "Who's Who" Taps 13 SJC Seniors in Reward for Work

Thirteen members of the senior class have been named for inclusion in the 1956-57 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

This annual publication is a listing of the outstanding members of the senior classes of universities and colleges throughout the country. Selection to Who's Who is considered to be one of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon a senior.

Candidates for representation on the list were nominated by the senior class. The final selection of 13 students was made by the college faculty.

Selections were based upon scholastic achievement, participation in extra-curricular activities, character and general attitude throughout the students' college careers.

Seniors named to Who's Who include:

Bernard A. Balas of Gary, Ind., who is majoring in Accounting. Bernie served as treasurer of his junior class and is presently vice-president of the seniors.

Richard Flynn of Chicago, also an Accounting major. Rich served as secretary of the Student Council in his third year as well as holding a position on the prom committee.

Robert M. Gasior of Chicago, a Biology-Chemistry major. Bob was secretary of his freshmen class and has been on the inter-club committee for the past two years.

Ronald Keller of La Porte, Ind., another Accounting major. Ron has been on the Dean's List all four years here at St. Joseph's and served on the education committee as a junior.

Glenn Murphy of Chicago, an Economics major. Glenn is currently president of his class and a member of the Student Council, as well as on the Dean's List.

Clifford F. Robinson of Indianapolis, a Physical Education major. A member of the Dean's List, Cliff's main efforts have gone into athletics here at St. Joseph's. For the past four years he has served as a trainer for all the major varsity sports, and is a member of the Monogram Club.

Albert Salerno of Niles, Ohio, who is majoring in Social Science. He was co-chairman of the prom committee as a junior and served on the disciplinary committee in his sophomore year.

Anthony M. Smith of Lakewood, Ohio, a history major. Tony is now president of the Student Council and served as its treasurer as a junior.

James E. Station of Flossmoor, Ill., who is majoring in English-Journalism. Jim was president of his Student Council in his sophomore and junior years.

Aloysius J. Stryck of Chicago, a Chemistry major. Al has been a member of the Dean's List each of his four years here at St. Joseph's.

Francis J. Unger of Rensselaer, Ind., another English-Journalism major. Frank is currently vice-president of the Student Council and was secretary-treasurer of his class as a sophomore.

Charles R. Vietzen of Oak Park, Ill., a Mathematics major. Chuck is now secretary of the Young Democrats and was vice-president of the History Club last year.

John J. White of Chicago, who is majoring in Philosophy. John was also a feature editor of Stuff as a sophomore and junior and was associate editor of Measure as a freshman.

was ordained in 1929 and was professor of theology at St. Charles from 1934 to 1937.

After a brief assignment at Catholic University, he became in 1938 provincial superior of the Fathers of the Precious Blood with headquarters in Carthage. He held that post until 1947, when he was consecrated auxiliary bishop of Kansas City. He continued in that capacity until last August when sweeping changes by decree of Pope Pius XII redistricted Missouri into four dioceses. He was then assigned to the office he assumed Nov. 27.

Herman Klopke Dies

Herman A. Klopke, father of Fr. John Klopke, died recently. Mr. Klopke had been employed by the College for about eight years. During this period he lived on campus above the powerhouse. He is survived by his son, a brother and a sister.

College Plans Construction Of Three Residence Halls

Plans for the construction of three new student residence halls have shifted into high gear at St. Joseph's College. The green light was given by the Chapter of the Society of the Precious Blood at a meeting recently at Carthage, Ohio.

The Chapter approved a $680,000 loan by the College from the Federal Government for construction of the three halls and the remodeling of the kitchen and dining room.

The three new residence halls will house 80 students and two priests each. The College enrollment will not, however, increase by 240 (the total number of students to be housed by the halls), since this will be the first new housing to replace the 120 students presently occupying the basement of the Administration building and the barracks-type housing on the third floor of Science hall.

The new buildings will be located between the Power plant and Noll hall and will run in a direct line north and south facing Noll hall. The northern-most building will be 225 feet east of and directly opposite Noll, with the other two buildings directly south of the first.

Present planning is in the hands of Mr. Frank Fischer of Rensselaer, noted architect and builder whose home office is in Chicago.

College Obtains McHale Library

St. Joseph's College Library has recently been given a collection of over 350 books and pamphlets by Frank McHale, a member of the board of Lay Trustees. The collection is the personal library of his sister, the late Dr. Kathryn McHale, a nationally famous educator, world traveler, and psychologist.

Dr. McHale was one of the original members of the Subversive Activities Control Board in Washington. She was appointed by President Truman to the board in 1950 and worked as a member until April 1956. She continued until her death as a special consultant to the board because of her knowledge of the SACB's case against the Communist Party.

Dr. McHale also served as general director of the American Association of University Women from 1929 to 1950, and was a member of the Board of Trustees at Purdue University.

Dr. McHale held M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University. She taught at Bentley School in New York, Goucher College in Baltimore, and held professorships during summer sessions at Columbia University and the University of Minnesota.

The collection of books reflect Dr. McHale's interests as a world traveler, educator, psychologist, and author. It contains many of Dr. McHale's personal writings, in addition to etchings collected by her.

The library has begun to absorb this collection into its own. The work of cataloguing will be completed during this school year, and books will be available for student use almost immediately.

College Literature Lays Groundwork

A recruitment survey of all new St. Joe students (326) reveals that more students (70) first became interested in the College through college literature than through any other means. Recommendations by other St. Joe students was the second most important factor. The alumni, who caused 16 students to become interested in Collegeville, ranked sixth in this category.

The survey, made by Fr. Richard P. Baird, admissions counsellor, on Registration day, listed the factors in order of their importance which influenced the final decisions of new students to enroll at St. Joseph's. Forty-four revealed that St. Joe students played the biggest role in helping them decide to matriculate here. Forty said a visit to the campus was what did the trick, while 34 said literature, 33 credited a high school teacher, 31 said the faculty, 24 reported that contact by mail was the decisive factor, while 22 said St. Joe alumni.

By far the feature which most attracted this year's new students was the small enrollment, which lured 105. Among other features, in order of their importance, which attracted the students were the factors of the Catholic college, the campus, nearness to home, atmosphere, courses offered, athletics, faculty, scholastic standards and location.

SJC Gets Paintings

Four paintings, having a combined value of $8000, were recently donated to Saint Joseph's by Mr. Bohimur Kryl and Mr. Hans Heniot.

In recent years, Mr. Kryl has donated seven paintings valued at $32,000 and 30 orchestral scores worth several thousand dollars, to St. Joseph's.

CENTER DAN FENKER goes into the air for a jump shot against Valpo in St. Joseph's opening ICC game of the season. Fenker led the Puma scoring attack with 17 points but his effort was not enough as the Pumas came out on the short end of the 82-73 score.

Lay Faculty Housing Moves Ahead On Ford Grant; Four Begin Plans

The St. Joseph College Board of Control gave its official approval recently to plans for the provision of lay faculty housing on the south end of the campus. Although details of the plan still remain to be worked out, there is already physical evidence of the realization of the long-time hope by Fr. Raphael Gross, president of the College, and of the Administration, to provide a lay faculty community on the campus.

Almost half of the 25 acres set aside for the project have already been cleared of brush and debris. The plot lies a half-mile south of the college and directly west of the cemetery.

About 22 home sites have been laid out, with each home occupying approximately one acre of land.

Four faculty members have already begun plans to build— Dr.

Jay Barton II, associate professor of biology, Mr. Ralph Cappuccilli, assistant professor of speech and dramatics, Mr. Bernard Qubeck, instructor in music, and Mr. Richard Scharf, associate professor of physical education.

Mr. Frank Fischer, Rensselaer architect, is handling the plans for all four homes as well as the planning for the 25-acre site.

Each resident will receive a 99-year lease on the plot and will pay the College $10 per year for the use of its land. The prospective home-owners are required to pay two percent down and the College will loan the entire cost of the home to the faculty member at the rate of four and one-half percent interest. Payments to the College will automatically be subtracted from the faculty member's pay-check.

The College is financing the housing development through the first installment ($140,000) of its total grant from the Ford Foundation. (The first installment was received July 2. The Foundation assured that the second installment of approximately the same amount would be received by next July. The total is St. Joseph's share of the Ford Foundation's grant, announced last December, of $210,000,000 to be distributed among 630 private, accredited colleges throughout the nation.)

In making the grant the Foundation stipulated that each institution receiving grants must invest the principal at the rate of four percent interest minimum, with the income from this interest to be used only to increase faculty salaries. (After 10 years, however, the principal may be applied to other needs.)

By means of the lay faculty housing plan, Father Gross noted that the Ford Foundation grant will be assisting the faculty in a double way—the principal, loaned to the faculty members to finance their own homes, will serve to provide them with adequate housing, while the interest received from these home-building faculty members will be used to increase their salaries.

The residents have formed a corporation known as the College Community organization. This group will oversee the development of the site and formulate regulations necessary for the welfare of the community. Such regulations will be subject to the approval of the College, which will own the land on which the faculty member has built.

St. Joseph's now numbers some two-dozen lay faculty members.

Dr. Barton To Speak

Dr. Jay Barton has accepted an invitation to give a three-day series of talks at the University of Nebraska this March. The invitation was made by Dr. Donald M. Pace, chairman of the Department of Physiology at the Lincoln, Neb., school.

Cagers Hit Stride In Tourney Sweep

St. Joseph's luckless cagers snapped a six-game losing streak Dec. 19 and 20 by sweeping the first Catholic College Holiday tournament in Chicago's De La Salle High school gym.

The Pumas brought home the imposing trophy after whipping St. Mary's of Winona, 79-62, and Lewis College, 89-78, on successive nights. The two victories brought St. Joseph's pre-holiday record to three wins and six losses. They have lost three out of three in Indiana Collegiate conference play.

They move into action again Jan. 5 at Indiana State.

The Pumas started out on the right foot with an 88-82 victory over Wabash, but after that they hit the skids with losses to Xavier, 88-59; Notre Dame, 98-55; Valparaiso, 82-73; DePauw, 78-54; Indiana State, 71-68; and Bellarmine College at Louisville, 70-68.

St. Joe has shown steady improvement since the Indiana State game, however, and finally hit their stride in Chicago. Coach Dale O'Connell's big problem was to overcome a height disadvantage and at the same time find a combination that could work together with guard Danny Rogovich and forward Bill Lewis. Although both are sophomores they are the only men who have turned in anything resembling consistent performances since the opening gun.

Rogovich, 5-7 playmaker from Chicago's Lindbloom High school, is pacing the team, as he did last year, with 149 points and a 17-jump shots from 10 feet out and five free throws to give the Pumas a commanding lead.

St. Mary's of Winona beat St. Ambrose in the consolation game 66-59.

The Pumas had little trouble with St. Mary's in the first game as they led all the way for their 79-62 win. Rogovich led the team with 24 points while Lewis potted 17.

Beat Wabash, Lose 6 Straight

St. Joe had to overcome a one-point halftime deficit before overtaking Wabash, 88-82, in the season's opener. Both teams were hot from the floor, hitting over 40 percent, with Rogovich pacing the Pumas with 31 points, his high for the season. Fenker netted 24 points, while Lewis was held to four.

Against Xavier the Pumas, averaging only 6-0 with Jim Noll in the starting line-up in place of Jancich, were completely outclassed under the boards and the Musketeers had little trouble, holding a 44-34 halftime lead. Rogovich again led St. Joe with 17 points while Lewis could manage only six.

The same quintet of Noll, Lewis, Fenker, Rogovich and Lux started against Notre Dame and proved even more disastrous than at Xavier as the Irish shot off to a 45-24 lead at intermission. From then on it was just a question of whether Notre Dame could reach 100, which they missed by two. Rogovich for the third straight game paced the Pumas with 20 points followed by Lux with 15. The starting front line managed a total of only nine points.

The scoring was exactly the reverse Dec. 8 when the Pumas went to Valparaiso to open their conference season. The same starting quintet came to life and battled the Crusaders down to the wire before losing, 82-73; but this time the front line piled up 43 points while Rogovich and Lux could total only seven. Fenker put in 17 and Lewis hit for 16, his average last year.

Against DePauw, where the team really hit bottom, everyone except Lewis went cold, and even the Fair Oaks forward, netting 17 points, was off his form. The other starting four could amass only 21 points among them as DePauw jumped off to a 45-30 halftime lead and was never threatened.

In an effort to provide more height, O'Connell juggled his line-up for the Indiana State game Dec. 15 by replacing Noll with 6-4 Jack Wilz at forward and Lux with Jancich at guard. This seemed to help as the Pumas found their eye and took a 40-32 halftime lead; but the attack fizzled and they were overhauled in the second half. Lewis led the attack with 22 points and Rogovich shook his slump with 19.

They showed even greater improvement the next night at Louisville when they extended a tough Bellarmine quintet to the limit before losing in the last five seconds on a pair of free throws, 70-68. It was a see-saw affair through the whole second half until the Knights went into a stall with 2:15 to go and the score knotted at 68. With five seconds to go Bellarmine forward Charlie Lanz drove in for the final shot and was fouled by Lux. Lanz connected on both charity tosses to win the game.

Lewis again led the Pumas with 19 points, supported by Rogovich and Fenker with 14 apiece.

Despite this loss, St. Joe was gaining confidence and beginning to jell, as they showed in the Chicago tourney.

JACK CLIFFORD attempts a jump shot over the towering reach of Jack Bedan, Notre Dame's 6-8 center, as Dan Fenker moves in for the rebound. The outclassed Pumas were crushed by the Irish, 98-55 point average. The 6-0 Lewis, who hails from the Rensselaer area and is a great drawing card at home, has come into his own after a slow start, rolling up 132 points for a 15-point average per game.

But after these two the individual performances have been erratic. Up until the Chicago tourney they had been outrebounded and outshot, slumping to their all-time low in the DePauw game when they hit on only 22 percent from the field and were completely outclassed on the floor.

They came out of their slump in the four succeeding games when the scoring became more diversified and some of the pressure was taken off Rogovich and Lewis. They hit their peak in the final tournament game against Lewis College when four men scored in double figures and the Pumas took control of the boards.

In the Lewis game 6-4 Greg Jancich of Whiting paired with Lewis at forward and finally hit his stride of last year with 18 points. Center Dan Fenker played his best game of the year, netting 19 points and using his 6-5 frame to good advantage under the boards. George Lux, 5-10 junior from Chicago, paired with Rogovich at guard and they netted eight and 13 points respectively. Lewis led the scoring with 27 points.

The Pumas took a 24-23 lead with 12 minutes gone and were never again overtaken. With 10 minutes remaining and St. Joe holding a 57-55 lead the losers went into a full court press; but Lewis sabotaged this strategy by scoring 13 straight points on four

Brunnerdale Seminary Observes 25th Anniversary; 364 in Order

MOST REV. EMMET M. WALSH

Brunnerdale Seminary in Ohio, preparatory school of the Society of the Precious Blood, celebrated its 25th anniversary Oct. 11 with a Solemn Pontifical Mass by the Most Rev. Emmet M. Walsh, bishop of Youngstown.

The Mass, open to the public, was held on the south campus directly in front of the main entrance to the seminary. Fr. Edward C. Labbe, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Massillon, preached the anniversary sermon.

The site for Brunnerdale Seminary, comprising 541 acres, makes it one of the most beautiful educational institutions in this part of the country.

The Seminary's first students—52 young men from St. Mary's Novitiate at Burkettsville, Ohio—arrived at Brunnerdale Oct. 5, 1931. It began as a two-year college preparatory course until, in 1936, a third year of training was added. In 1948 Brunnerdale became a four-year high school, and has since been fully accredited.

Because of expansion of educational facilities and increased enrollment a building program was put into effect and completed in 1951. The present enrollment is

169. A new enrollment record was set when 98 new students entered the school in September to begin their freshmen studies.

Since 1931, 1,416 students for the priesthood have been admitted to Brunnerdale. Although most of the boys intended to become priests in the Society of the Precious Blood, not all of them realized their aims.

Of this total of 1,416 students, 794 entered Brunnerdale prior to the school year, 1945-46. They are the only Brunnerdale students who could be ordained at the present time in the Society of the Precious Blood. Of the 794 who did enter prior to 1945, 148 (18.6%) have been ordained priests in the Society.

Of the 622 boys who entered Brunnerdale between the years 1945-1956, 204 (32.7%) are still pursuing their priesthood studies either at Brunnerdale or at one of the other community houses of study (including St. Joseph's).

Of the total number of 1,416 students who entered Brunnerdale prior to this year, 364 (25.7%) attained their goal either as priests or brothers in the Society, or are continuing as students of the Society.

Gridders Crack 15 ICC Marks

The new Indiana Collegiate conference champions—St. Joseph's Pumas—rearranged 21 conference records by breaking 15 and tying six in their furious assault on the six ICC opponents.

As a team the Pumas broke eight season records. They shattered the old scoring mark of 212 by 40 points, running up a total of 252. At the same time they allowed only 19 points to be scored against them, smashing the old record of 52. Only two of the six ICC opponents were able to score at all against St. Joe—Indiana State and Butler. The average score per game in conference play was a lopsided 42-3 in favor of the ICC champs.

The Pumas also picked up more yards on the ground than any other team in history—1856. This bettered the old mark of 1661 by almost 200 yards. They added to their growing collection the best per-game average in yards gained with 411.5, breaking the old mark of 410.2.

St. Joe finished with by far the best total offense in ICC history with 2469 yards (398 plays) compared to the old record of 2031 (368 plays). Their passing game netted them the most touchdowns through the air—11, to clip the old mark of 10.

Perhaps the most outstanding season record, or at least the one for which they have received the most attention, is in the number of yards gained against them—

590 in conference play. The old mark was a buried 1022, which gives some idea of how the Pumas have attained the rating as the best defensive squad in the nation. They allowed a per-game average of 98 yards to be gained against them by ICC opponents, while the Pumas were picking up 411 yards per game.

Finally, St. Joe as a team achieved the most consecutive wins ever put together within the conference in a single season—six.

The Pumas also broke four game records this year. They smashed the old mark of 50 points in a single game by scoring 59 against Indiana State and then, once again, 66 against Ball State. In the same game they set the new mark for most touchdowns—10. Against Valparaiso they chalked up more rushes from scrimmage than ever before—82, cracking the old record of 65. And again in the Ball State game they had the best average gain per rush in history—8.7 yards.

The only individual single game mark to fall to the Pumas was most rushes from scrimmage, set by Mike Murphy, sophomore fullback, with 31 against Valparaiso to break the old mark of 24.

The final two marks were season records set by two individuals—Quarterback Ralph Tite and End George Sherwood. The pair formed perhaps the deadliest aerial combination in ICC history with Tite setting the mark for touchdown passes with 10 and Sherwood cracking the record of scoring passes received by grabbing six. The unusual note about Sherwood's record is that he caught a total of only eight passes in his entire conference play.

The six records which the

THE LEADERSHIP responsible for St. Joe's greatest football season emanated from this talented three-man coaching staff of Dale O'Connell, head Coach Bob Jauron and Bob Shemky.

Calumet School Plans Building

The enrollment at St. Joseph College's Calumet Center in Hammond is increasing so rapidly that the center's facilities are becoming inadequate, according to its director, the Rev. James I. Birkley.

Father Birkley stated during a luncheon at the Hammond Times Press club recently that enrollment now is between 300 and 400

Pumas tied included the most touchdowns from rushing in a single season—25; the most touchdowns from rushing in a single game—seven against Indiana State; most touchdowns by passing in a single game—four against Butler; most extra points scored by an individual in a single game—five by Dick Hagye against Indiana State and by Jerry Selinger against Ball State; most touchdown passes by an individual in a single game—four, by Tite against Butler; and most extra points scored by an individual in a single season—14 by Hagye.

students, and that plans are being discussed for erecting a new building. The center is now housed in the Bishop Noll high school building. The current enrollment is 15 percent ahead of last year's.

The Calumet Center's director made the remarks during a visit to Hammond by Fr. John F. Lefko, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association and treasurer of St. Joseph's college. He and Father Birkley reviewed the situation with Roland Fox, Hammond clothier and a member of the Board of Directors at Calumet Center. They were guests of James S. DeLaurier, publisher of the Hammond Times, at the Press club.

Although preliminary study of a building program has begun, it may not come about for another three years. The definite location of the proposed SJC Calumet Center edifice is not yet known.

St. Joe Buries Illini in Finale

A cold Shewbridge field in Chicago was made to sizzle Friday night, Nov. 9, as St. Joseph's Pumas closed their most successful regular season in 14 years with their most crushing victory of the season and of the college's history, a 71-0 romp over the University of Illinois Chicago Branch.

The victory gave the Pumas a final season record of 8-1. St. Joseph's had undefeated teams back in 1941 and 1942, when they won eight and seven games, respectively.

In the scoring, quarterback Ralph Tite, halfback Norb Daigle, and fullback Mike Murphy each accounted for two touchdowns.

Pumas Rated Number One Defensive Team in Nation

Dinners, Glamor Surround Show

Two large banquets, graced by a number of celebrities, half a dozen queens, radio microphones and television cameras, highlighted the festivities which surrounded the first annual Aluminum Bowl game Dec. 22.

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' first football Hall of Fame Banquet was held in Little Rock's Marion hotel on Thursday night preceding the game. The three-and-a-half hour event featured the entry of the first 11 members into the NAIA Hall of Fame, as well as speeches by officials of Arkansas, Little Rock, the NAIA and the Aluminum industry.

The dinner was climaxed by an exchange of gifts between the coaches and co-captains of St. Joseph's and Montana State, with Coach Bob Jauron and Captains Ray Banary and Paul Scherschel receiving Montana cowboy hats.

Also introduced Thursday night was St. Joseph's first Bowl queen—Miss Margaret Johnson, a sophomore at the University of New Hampshire. Miss Johnson, who was entered in the contest to represent St. Joe by Ed Labbe, sophomore end on the football team and also from New Hampshire, was selected as Miss New Hampshire in 1955 and participated in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City.

Included among the celebrities at the banquet were Congressman Charles A. Halleck of Rensselaer and member of the SJC Board of Lay Trustees, who was representing Indiana's Governor Craig, and Otto Graham, former Northwestern and Cleveland Browns' star.

The Awards dinner, held after the game, was highlighted by the presentation of 17-jewel Aluminum Bowl watches to the members of the two surprisingly clean football squads. Possession of the five-foot Aluminum Bowl trophy was decided over a national radio hook-up by a toss of the coin, which St. Joseph's won. The Pumas will have possession of the trophy for the first six months of 1957, after which it will be shipped to Montana State. It is a rotating trophy and will once again go to the winner of next year's game.

The St. Joe squad arrived in Arkansas 10 days before the game and set up headquarters in Hot Springs for two-a-day-workouts. The team moved into the Lafayette hotel in Little Rock on Wednesday before the game.

It's official—St. Joseph's College is the best defensive team in the country according to final NAIA football statistics.

The Pumas held their nine opponents to an average of only 109 yards a game, one of the finest records in the history of modern football.

Tennessee A & I of Nashville was second among small colleges with an average of 118.8.

St. Joseph's accomplished this feat while rolling to an undefeated Indiana Collegiate conference championship and a season record of 8-1.

Out of the eight statistical team categories listed the Pumas placed among the leaders in seven of them, missing out only in team passing. Besides ranking first in the nation in total defense, the Pumas placed third in the nation in rushing defense, holding their opponents to 59.9 yards a game on the ground; twelfth in the country in passing defense with a 49.1 average per game against them by air; and second in team defensive scoring, allowing only 32 points all season. Tennessee A & I ranked first by holding their nine opponents to 25 points a game.

Offensively St. Joseph's placed among the nation's leaders in rushing, total offense and team scoring. They ranked eleventh in rushing with 288.3 yards a game; eleventh in total offense with 388.4 yards per game; and third in team scoring with 360 points, an average of 40 per game. Mississippi Vocational ranked first in scoring with 462 points in 10 games. St. Joe, in running up their offensive total, also ranked first among the leaders in safeties with four.

Although the Pumas as a team did not rank among the leaders in passing, their aerial attack produced the only two men to represent St. Joe's among the nation's individual leaders. Quarterback Ralph Tite of Chicago ranked 22nd among the nation's passers with 91.4 yards a game through the air on 36 completions in 76 attempts for 823 yards. He tied for fourth place among the leaders in touchdown passes with 12.

George Sherwood, St. Joseph's outstanding end from Long Beach, Calif., placed 23rd among the country's pass receiving leaders with an average of 42.3 yards a game. The unusual feature about Sherwood's accomplishment is that he caught only 12 passes in nine games, thus giving him the highest average per play among the leaders—31.8 yards every time he caught a pass.

"Twelve Angry Men" Wins Patrons' Raves

"Twelve Angry Men," the Columbian Players initial presentation of the 1956-57 season, has been termed an outstanding success by observers on and off the Collegeville campus. The Raleigh Hall presentation was perhaps one of the most powerful and effective plays to be presented by the Columbian Players in the past four or five years.

Near-perfect characterization marked the production as each of the actors did his utmost to delineate the fine points of his role.

Special commendation should be given to the eight freshmen and one sophomore, who not only were making their first appearance with the Columbian Players, but gave their initial presentations in the medium of arena staging, one of the most difficult of the acting media.

The 12 jurors were played by underclassmen John Whalen, Chuck Tilton, Bernard Rupp, John Klawitter, Mike Fortin, David Mann, Bob Madden, Leo Brady, Jim Trotter and Pat Lavery; senior Bernie Balas and junior Bill Schuler.
